

Marco Lino Leonardi

Marco Lino Leonardi (Catania 1977), researcher in Medieval History at DISUM (Dipartimento di Scienze Umanistiche) University of Catania, Italy. He studies the use of natural resources and how they are perceived in the Late European Middle Ages and he is interested in communications techniques of Mendicant Orders in Europe during the centuries XIII –XVI. He has written many essays published in international scientific Journals such as Wasserinfrastrukturen als Streitfaktor in der Stadt Catania von Kaiser Friedrich II. bis zu Alfons V. „dem Großmütigen“ (Munich 2015). He contributes to Monumenta Germaniae Historica (Munich, Germany). He stays regularly at German Universities (e.g. Albert-Ludwigs –Universität Freiburg; Ludwig –Maximilians –Universität München; Technische Universität Darmstadt) for his study. In November 2018 at the University of Jena (Germany), and lately in April 2019 at the University of Leipzig (Germany) he was invited as Visiting Professor. His latest books are La medievistica «siciliana» e l'«Età del Vespro» (1250-1302). Fonti, ricostruzione storica, polemica storiografica, Algra Editore, Catania 2020 and Aqua curanda est. Le acque e il loro utilizzo nei territori di Friburgo in Brisgovia e Catania dal XIII al XVI secolo, Leo S. Olschki Editore, Florence 2017. For Mario Adda publisher he has just written an essay: La politica di utilizzazione delle acque come instrumentum regni da parte di Re, Regine e Vicerè nella Sicilia dei secoli XIII–XVI (Bari 2018). His latest essay for Algra Editore (Viagrande [Catania] 2019) is «Mirum erat ac horrendum spectaculum...». La percezione, la descrizione e la narrazione della malattia nel «De Rebus Siculis Decades Duae» di Tommaso Fazello (1498-1570). Since 2019 he is a member of the international Researchgroup FOVOG (Research Centre for Comparative History of Religious Orders). In the year 2021 he started an international cooperation with the "Tolkien Society" for the study of historical sources in "The Lord of the Rings".

Dr Marco Lino Leonardi

Research Associate and Tutor (History of the Middle Ages)

Università degli Studi di Catania

Dipartimento di Scienze Umanistiche (SSD M-STO/01 Storia Medievale)

Ex Monastero dei Benedettini

Piazza Dante 32

95124 Catania (Italy) Stanza 223

Tel. +39 095 7102353/360

E-Mail: mleonardit@yahoo.it